

— YOU JUST WALKED OUT OF THE SAT

Everyone out here is guessing. You don't have to be.

Your score won't land for two weeks — and even then it won't tell you what to do next. Here is the order that actually works — and the part nobody keeps up by hand.

How to prepare for the digital SAT in 4 steps

None of this is a secret. The first two you can do tonight, on your own, with any full-length test.

- ✓ Take a full-length test for a baseline.
A real score under real timing, not a guess.
- ✓ Set a goal score and a test date.
Two numbers. Everything after this is arithmetic against them.
- ✓ Work the gaps, in the right order.
Sorted by why you missed each question, then scheduled as real work — and re-sorted every time you practice.
- ✓ Re-test, and read the pacing.
Accuracy tells you what you missed. Pacing tells you why.

STEPS 3 AND 4, DONE FOR YOU

Your plan, tonight to test day

Built from your gaps. Prove a skill and it leaves the plan — the next gap moves up to take its place.

2,200+

hand-authored practice questions the plan pulls from, aimed at your gaps

12

full-length adaptive practice tests, scheduled into the plan as checkpoints

24/7

AI tutor that works the problem with you, step by step

POINT YOUR CAMERA HERE

Find out tonight.

About an hour, on your phone. You'll finish knowing exactly which skills cost you points today — and what to do first.

Scan to start →

or go to sevaprep.com