

— YOU JUST WALKED OUT OF THE SAT

Everyone out here is guessing. You don't have to be.

Your score won't land for two weeks — and even then it won't tell you what to do next.
Here is the order that actually works — and the part nobody keeps up by hand.

How to prepare for the digital SAT in 4 steps

- 1 Take a full-length test.
A real score under real timing — not a guess at where you stand.
- 2 Set a goal score and a test date.
Two numbers. Everything after this is arithmetic against them.
- 3 Work your gaps, in the right order.
Not every topic. The ones costing you the most points, first.
- 4 Re-test, and read your pacing.
Accuracy tells you what you missed. Pacing tells you why.

Steps 1 and 2 you can do tonight, on your own. Steps 3 and 4 are the ones nobody keeps up by hand for eight weeks. That is the part SEVA does for you.

POINT YOUR CAMERA HERE

Find out tonight.

About an hour, on your phone. You'll finish knowing exactly which skills cost you points today — and what to do first.

Scan to start →

or go to sevaprep.com